COLUMBUS, Ohio - MAPSYS, a leading provider of innovative technology solutions celebrating more than 40 years of serving clients across North America, today announced the appointment of Steve Werman and John Lawson to its Board of Directors.

COLUMBUS, Ohio - MAPSYS, a leading provider of innovative technology solutions celebrating more than 40 years of serving clients across North America, today announced the appointment of Steve Werman and John Lawson to its Board of Directors. Their appointments mark another significant milestone as MAPSYS continues its growth through strategic acquisitions, expanded capabilities, and investments in long-term success.

Over the past several years, MAPSYS has expanded its capabilities through the acquisitions of IT Solutions Group, Gottlieb & Wertz, and GKT Consulting, strengthening its expertise across AI, infrastructure, application development, hybrid cloud, managed services, staffing, and consulting, while expanding into a larger headquarters in downtown Columbus, Ohio, reflecting the company's continued investment in growth, innovation, and its people.

"As MAPSYS continues to grow, we are committed to surrounding ourselves with leaders who bring exceptional experience and strategic perspective. Steve and John have built impressive careers leading high-performing organizations through periods of growth and transformation. Their expertise will help guide MAPSYS as we continue expanding our capabilities, strengthening our partnerships, and delivering even greater value to our clients, partners, and employees."

Fred Shafer
President &
CEO, MAPSYS

Steve Werman joins the Board following an accomplished executive career in finance, operations, and corporate strategy. Most recently, he served as Chief Operating Officer and Chief Financial Officer at HOMAGE, where he remains a member of its Board of Directors, helping to lead the company's rapid growth through strategic planning, operational excellence, and financial leadership. Prior to HOMAGE, Werman spent more than seven years with KPMG Advisory, advising private equity and middle-market organizations on transactions and strategic initiatives.

John Lawson brings decades of executive leadership experience from Cardinal Health, Chase, and Big Lots, where he has led strategic initiatives focused on operational excellence, organizational performance, and business growth. John now serves as the Principal Customer Success Executive at ServiceNow, leveraging his experience leading complex enterprises and driving business, technology, and operational strategy. He will bring invaluable insight as MAPSYS continues its national expansion.

Together, Werman and Lawson bring decades of experience in scaling organizations, strengthening operations, and advising executive leadership teams. Their appointments reinforce MAPSYS' commitment to thoughtful governance and position the company to continue delivering innovative technology solutions while building on more than 40 years of trusted client partnerships.
