MAPSYS Unveils New 20,000-Square-Foot Headquarters at White Castle Campus

New Columbus headquarters brings the MAPSYS brand to life through purposeful design, natural light, flexible collaboration spaces, and sweeping views of downtown.

COLUMBUS, Ohio - MAPSYS Inc., a leading IT consulting firm serving clients across North America for more than 40 years, proudly announces the relocation of its corporate headquarters to a new, expanded office on the top floor of the White Castle Headquarters at Suite 400, 555 Edgar Waldo Way, Columbus, Ohio, effective March 1, 2026.

The 20,000-square-foot headquarters represents a significant investment in the company's people, clients, partners, and future. Overlooking the downtown Columbus skyline, the office was intentionally created to encourage innovation, collaboration, transparency, and meaningful connection.

After 38 years at 920 Michigan Avenue, the move marks an important step forward as MAPSYS continues to grow and evolve. While the address is changing, the company remains rooted in the Grandview Heights area of Columbus. The expanded headquarters provides the capacity, technology, and environment needed to support employees while creating an elevated experience for clients and business partners.

“This move represents an exciting milestone for MAPSYS. Our home has always been the Grandview Heights area of Columbus, and this project ensures that will continue for many years to come. The new expanded space allows us to better support our growing team, create an enhanced environment for collaboration with clients, partners, and staff, and continue our commitment to delivering exceptional service to our clients. We’re especially excited to join the White Castle campus and continue to build upon the strong relationships already established with the tenants there.”

- Fred Shafer, President & CEO

Downtown Columbus views and a modern MAPSYS boardroom reflect the new headquarters' focus on place, collaboration, and client connection.

Designed with Purpose

The headquarters was designed to reflect how MAPSYS works today and where the company is headed. Extensive glass walls maximize natural light and create an open, connected environment that embodies transparency and teamwork while preserving spaces for focused work and private conversations.

Four boardrooms and six dedicated collaboration spaces are integrated throughout the office to support strategic planning, client engagement, creative problem-solving, and everyday teamwork. Warm wood finishes, flexible furnishings, branded environmental elements, and expansive views create a welcoming experience for employees, clients, and partners.

A Brand Experience Brought to Life Through Partnership

Bringing the new headquarters to life required close collaboration with trusted partners, each contributing specialized expertise to create a workplace that feels distinctly MAPSYS.

Carpenter & Sons	Delivered beautiful, striking, custom millwork for the MAPSYS feature wall, conference room, and reception desk facade.
TENFOLD	Led the branding and brand experience, translating the MAPSYS identity, culture, and vision into the physical environment through strategic storytelling and environmental brand expression.
Continental Office	Provided the glass office and wall systems that bring openness, daylight, and visual connection throughout the workplace.
Dupler Office	Provided furniture and workplace solutions selected to support comfort, flexibility, collaboration, and productivity across the headquarters.

An Exceptional Partnership with White Castle

MAPSYS worked closely with the White Castle team throughout the project. Their collaboration, responsiveness, and commitment to excellence were instrumental in making the transition successful and creating a strong foundation for MAPSYS within the White Castle campus community.

> "Working closely with the White Castle team has been truly exceptional. From the earliest planning stages through completion, their professionalism, collaboration, and commitment to excellence made this an outstanding experience. We are grateful for their partnership and proud to call the White Castle campus our new home."

A New Chapter for MAPSYS

More than a new headquarters, the space represents the next chapter of MAPSYS - a workplace designed to inspire innovation, strengthen relationships, and create opportunities for the next 40 years. As the company continues to grow, the headquarters provides a strong foundation for delivering exceptional technology solutions and meaningful business outcomes to clients across North America.
